Friday, June 15. 1716.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 20.

Rome, May 23.

TH E Sieur Duodo, Ambassador of Venice, has magnificently treated the Officers of the Pope's Gallies, that are to serve in the Levant. Upon Advice that there was arrived at Civita-Vecchia, a considerable Quantity of Corn, three Barks were sent to bring it to this City, to supply in some Measure the great Want there is at present. But those Barks having the Corn on Board, were met by a Tripolin Pirate, and the S. amen, in providing for their own Safety only, leaped a-Shore: and abandon'd their Ships, which were immediately taken by the Corsair. The Governour of Civita-Vecchia sent out immediately two Gallies to pursue him, and the Chevalier de la Motta, Captain of one of those Gallies, took one of the Barks, and in it eight Turks that were on board. We since hear that another of those Barks is retaken, but the Pirate himself is escaped with the third, which he carried off. On the 22d two Congregations were held at the Palace, one for causing the Gallies designed to join the Venetian Fleet, to depart suddenly; to which they also hoped the Gallies and Ships of Naples will also join, conformably to the last Advice we have from Vienna. The other Congregation was for considering of the Means of providing against the great Scarcity, which is almost general throughout the Ecclesiastical State. The Ambassador of Ferrara thanked the Pope the same Day, for having lent the City 50000 Crowns to be employed in relieving the Publick Necessity. The 23d the Military Congregation, and that of the Annone, assembled likewise. Afterwards the Sieur Banchieri, Secretary of the Consulta, went to meet Cardinals San Cesareo and Imperiale, to treat with them upon a Difference that is arisen with the Commanders of two Gallies of Geneva, which are to pass into the Levant with the others. They pretend that the Republick was not obliged to maintain those two Gallies during the Campaign, but that the Chamber ought to charge itself with that Expence, asserting that it is so agreed upon. Some Means were proposed for accommodating this Affair, which were rejected; it was therefore resolved, that if the Commanders of these two Genoese Gallies persist in demanding that they be maintained at the Expence of the Chamber, they shall be sent back. On the 25th the Electoral Prince of Bavaria had Audience of the Pope, and thanked him particularly for the Favours granted to Prince Clement his Brother, in confirming the Postulation of the Chapter of Ratisbon in his Favour.

Venice, May 30. Besides many Ships that came in last Week from the Levant, there arrived two Days ago a French Merchant-Man in eight Days from Corfu: He has brought Letters by which we are informed, that the Squadron of eight Ships that were to have joined those of the Sieur Flaminio, Provéditore in Ordinary for Shipping, was departed, but 'twas unknown upon what Design. The Captain General waited only for the Auxiliary Ships and Gallies to put to Sea. From the Side of the Terra Firma they had Advice, that the Turks had not yet assembled any Troops, and there remained only in that Country, those that were Canton'd there; and even of them, part have taken the Road towards Hungary. They continue to make great Magazines for their Fleet, which is still in the Dardanelles, expecting the Ships that are gone to the Archipelago to raise Seamen. The Advices received from Spalatro remark, that the General Emo was still there with the principal Officers, to regulate the Campment of the Troops, and make the necessary Dispositions. The Turks who are Canton'd in divers Quarters on the Frontiers, had made no Movement. We are at work in the Arsenal in finishing two great Men of War that are upon the Stocks, and the Senate has ordered 6 more of the Second Rate to be built. The Germans, Swiss, and Grisons, lately arrived at the Lazaret, having made their Quarantine, are embarked to sail to the Levant and Dalmatia. 300 Men of the Troops of Octobres are quartered at Verona, and will be followed by 400 Grenadiers of Schuytemberg, and other Foreign Levies.

Madrid, June 1. Their Majesties and the Princes will return hither the 10th from Aranjuez, to assist at the Procession of the Feast of the Holy Sacrament. The Ambassador of Portugal has for three Days together celebrated the Birth of the Infanta of Portugal, Don Carlos, with great Magnificence. We have received Advice from Coruena, that a Ship was arrived there from New Spain, richly laden, who reports that there has been saved out of the Wrack upon the Coast of Florida, all the Silver belonging to the King, and half of that belonging to the Merchants: That the Flotilla was arrived at Vera Cruz, and was almost ready to return. [The Story written some Time ago from France, that the English Buccaneers had seized a great Part of this Silver, is apparently false, since otherwise it would undoubtedly have been here mentioned.]

Hague, June 11. We have received News of the Death of John William Joseph, Elector Palatine, who enjoyed this Life at Dusseldorp the 8th Instant, at five in the Morning. He was a Son of Philip William, Elector Palatine, and Elizabeth Amelia of Hesse, and Born April 19, 1658. He Married first, the Archduchess Mary Anne, Daughter of the Emperour Ferdinand III. And in his second Marriage, the Princess Anne Mary de Medicis, Daughter of Cosmo III, Duke of Tuscany. And had no Children in both Marriages.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated June 20.

Brussels, June 18. According to some Letters from Vienna, the Imperial Court hath resolved to have here, as there was in the Time of the Emperour Charles V. Two Councils established: That is to say, one a Privy-Council, and the other a Council of State. The former to direct the Affairs of Justice, and the latter those of Police. Which last however, upon extraordinary Occasions, are to be called by the Imperial Ministers to assist with their Advice. Count Coningsbeck is searching out for a List of the Names of those Persons who had Offices, Estates or Pensions conferred upon them by the Elector of Bavaria, or the Duke of Anjou. The Secretary of the Marquis de Prié is arrived here, and 'tis said that he has hired the Palace of Espinoy, and that the Marquis will be here by the End of this Month.
